

Summary of the Alabama Red Snapper Exempted Fishing Permit Conditions and 2018 Season

Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources / Marine Resources Division

Exempted Fishing Permit: Background

An Exempted Fishing Permit (EFP) is issued by the Office of Fisheries within the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration

An EFP allows for temporary suspension of fishing regulations in federal waters to test ideas related to fisheries management or new fishing gear

Alabama DCNR/Marine Resources Division submitted an EFP application in early 2018

The EFP application included an exemption from federal recreational fishing regulations for recreational red snapper anglers in federal waters (anglers on private and state-licensed charter vessels).

Anglers fishing from federally-permitted charter vessels are not included in the EFP and their season will be from June 1 – July 21, 2018

The EFP was approved by NOAA Fisheries for the 2018 and 2019 seasons

EFP Conditions: 2018 Season

What are the dates of the season?

Alabama's season will potentially be 47 days including Fridays-Sundays from June 1st – Sept. 3rd, weekdays during the week of July 4th holiday, and Labor Day

Season length was calculated based on the pounds of red snapper requested in the EFP application (984,291 lbs) and the average daily catch rate estimated to have occurred during the 2017 season

Throughout the season, the harvest will be monitored and if the harvest is anticipated to exceed the requested amount of red snapper the season will be closed early. The season may be extended if harvest is less than requested total.

Can I fish during another state's open season and transit through Alabama waters when Alabama's season is closed?

No, unless there is a medical emergency, possession of red snapper on Alabama's waters outside the Alabama season will be a violation

How will EFP conditions be enforced?

Enforcement by DCNR/Marine Resources enforcement staff may occur in federal or state waters. Staff will be checking the following items to ensure compliance with the EFP conditions;

- Anglers have appropriate fishing license or angler registry registration
- Red snapper are being appropriately reported (i.e. correct vessel registration number, number of fish harvested, and/or timing of reporting)
- Enforcing closed season prohibition of red snapper possession in Alabama waters

When will the 2019 season be determined?

It is anticipated a decision will be made in early 2019

EFP Conditions: 2018 Season

What are the seasons in other states?

Similar EFP's were issued to all Gulf States. If landing red snapper in another state check that state's EFP requirements. Appropriate licensing will be used to enforce EFP participation in federal waters.

Florida: June 11 - July 21

Mississippi: May 25 - Labor Day; closure July 9-22

Louisiana: May 25 - until quota is caught

Texas: June 1 – August 21st (state waters open remainder of the year)

Trip examples:

1) Alabama's red snapper season is closed but Mississippi's season is open. Anglers can depart Alabama but they must acquire a hail-out trip number from Mississippi's Tails n' Scales program before fishing in Mississippi waters. Anglers must also have appropriate Mississippi fishing licenses, stay within Mississippi size and bag limits, and land red snapper in Mississippi. Any harvested red snapper must be reported through Tails n' Scales and landed in Mississippi. The vessel cannot travel through Alabama waters with red snapper on board.

2) Alabama's red snapper season is closed but Florida's season is open. Anglers can depart Alabama and fish in Florida's waters for red snapper. Anglers must have purchased appropriate Florida fishing license and signed up for the Gulf Reef Fish Survey. All harvested fish must meet Florida's size and bag limits and any harvested red snapper must be landed in Florida. The vessel cannot travel through Alabama waters with red snapper on board.
